Instructions for the use of certificates and registration marks

1, Use of Certificates and Logos

Once your company has received the certificate, you can use the logo on your letterhead, documents and promotional materials in accordance with the following points:

1. Your company can use the ZWJM round logo alone. The IAS/IAF square/oval registration mark must be used in conjunction with the ZWJM round mark and cannot be used alone.

   The only ZWJM marks that can be used with the IAS mark are the following: ISO 9001, ISO14001, ISO45001.

2. The logo can only be printed on business cards, letterheads, and documents.....and other promotional materials or verification plants, the LOGO shall not be printed on the packaging and products, or misleading people to believe that it is product verification.

3. When printing, it should:

   3.1 Annotate your company's customer number

   3.2 It is necessary to use the principle of relatively conspicuous color. You can use flat, embossed, or embossed versions.

   3.3 The logo can be presented as an electronic image file, but it must be marked with your company's customer number and used in accordance with the provisions of the annex.

   3.4 When using the logo, it is necessary to zoom in and out according to the original scale. Signs must be legible and must not be used in a smaller size if they cannot be clearly displayed.

4. When the scope of verification is reduced, such as: reduce the regulatory items of verification, product scope, site scope, and should correct the promotional content.

5. The customer shall not make any unauthorised statements about the certificate in order to mislead others.

6. If the logo style is attached, please refer to the sample of the attachment for use.
